NORWAY LOSES STEAMER

Unidentified Ship Stops Jap Liner In Pacific, Causing Another 'Incident'

By International News Service
The modern British destroyer Exmouth, a 1,475-ton flotilla leader that cost $1,651,195 to construct, lay at the bottom of the North Sea today after being mined or torpedoed and apparently carried to their deaths all members of its crew of 175 to 200 men.

The vessel was the second British destroyer lost in less than a week and the fifth admitted by the British admiralty to have been sunk since hostilities began.

Shortly after the admiralty announced the loss with "regret," a dispatch from Oslo revealed the sinking of the Norwegian steamer Sydfold by a mine or torpedo off the Scottish Coast. Five members of the crew were reported missing.

In Paris, meanwhile, a military communique reported that German units were driven off after a skirmish with a French outpost in the Lauter River sector of the Western Front. The German communique said that aside from the destruction of the Exmouth there were "no worthwhile events."

Oil Question Vital

Great Britain kept a close watch on German efforts to increase Rumanian oil deliveries to the Reich. It was understood in London that the British government may warn Rumania that she cannot expect economic aid from the Anglo-French Allies if she proposes to sell larger oil supplies to Germany.

BROWDER NAMED IN CONTEST FOR CONGRESS POST

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—Earl R. Browder, Communist party leader convicted of passport fraud, has been nominated by his party followers as their candidate for congress in the 14th district of New York and election officials expressed a preliminary opinion today that his name will go on the ballot unless a taxpayer protests and is upheld in court.

The nominating petition, bearing 5,441 signatures, more than the 3,000 valid signers needed, was filed an hour before the deadline last night. The seat was made vacant by the recent death of Rep. William I. Sivovich.

Election authorities said there were no recent precedents to guide them in the case of Browder, a convicted man free on bail pending an appeal. They pointed out that Eugene V. Debs, the social leader, once ran for president while in a federal prison.

CIO CHIEF SEES DEFEAT FOR F. D.

Lewis Predicts, However, That Roosevelt Will Not Run Again

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—John L. Lewis, head of the CIO labor faction and president of the powerful United Mine Workers Union, declared today that he believes President Roosevelt will not seek a third term but that he should be re-nominated "his candidacy would result in ignominious defeat."

Lewis made the assertion while delivering a stinging indictment of the Democratic party before the Golden Jubilee convention of the United Mine Workers.

The CIO leaders' third-term observations came after he had painted a rather dismal picture of the future and accused the Democratic party of "breaking faith" with coalition interests which he said were responsible for its being placed in power seven years ago.

"I am one who believes that President Roosevelt will not be a candidate for re-election," he said in summation.

"Conceding that the Democratic national convention could be coerced or dragged into re-nominating him, I am convinced that with the conditions now confronting the nation and the dissatisfaction now permeating the minds of the people, his candidacy would result in ignominious defeat."

Retreat of Lewis from the Roosevelt colors increased the belief among the more than 2,000 convention delegates that U. S. Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (D) Montana, would receive at least the moral support of potent UMW leaders. Senator Wheeler, a Democratic (Continued on Page Two)

GENERAL SNOW GRASPS NATION, EVEN THE SOUTH

Few Sections Of Country Escape Storm; Rain Cited As Fatal Crash Cause

MANY RECORDS BROKEN

Birmingham, Ala., Records 10 Inches; Louisiana Districts Suffer

By International News Service
As a new wave of severe sub-zero weather spread over much of the North today, the deep South, still in the grip of extremely low temperatures, began digging itself out after one of the heaviest and most general snowstorms in the southland's history.

The southern snows ranged from eight to 16 inches in depth in some sections, affecting a wide belt through Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana and along the Gulf Coast as far south as Corpus Christi, Texas.

Few sections of the country escaped the extreme weather conditions. The nation's capital was covered today with between four and five inches of snow as part of the storm which struck the South yesterday reached Washington, D. C., and vicinity.

After a day of wind, rain and snow storms which swept most of California, the state was given to expect more bad weather today. A blinding rainstorm was believed to have caused the crash of an army bomber last night near Riverside, Cal., which brought death to four army airmen.

Traffic, Business Stop

In the South, where at least one person was reported to have been frozen to death and numerous traffic accidents were blamed on the snow and ice, some of the larger cities were temporarily disorganized. In many places traffic and business was brought to a virtual standstill.

A fall of more than 10 inches of snow at Birmingham, Ala., was one of the heaviest in the area, but Knoxville, Tenn., reported about 12 inches of snow; Atlanta had about 10 inches; Montgomery, Ala., reported between one and three inches; Meridian, Miss., from five to seven inches; Alexandria, La., from seven to nine inches, and Asheville, N. C., one inch.

Elsewhere throughout the southland snowfalls and low temperatures broke records. Cold setting in again in the North, particularly in the Plains States, another cold wave was setting in following a blast last week which sent temperatures down to record lows.

First Of Rotary Club Lectures Begins At 8

The first lecture of the International Institute series will be given Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the High School social room, necessitating an air raid alarm that lasted for 30 minutes.

British pursuit planes went aloft to drive off the attackers. There was no immediate official information as to the damage done by the bombs.

The R. A. F. planes failed to contact the invaders, which dodged behind high clouds and disappeared.

During the course of the attack, one of the German planes dived toward a steamer moored at a wharf but did not attack the vessel.

Campaign to Buy Fifty New Uniforms for Band Centers on Feb. 26 Week

The week of February 26 will be "Band Uniform Week" in Circleville. The week was so named by a committee which met in the High School library Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

It is the intention of the committee to put on an intensive city-wide campaign for the much-needed uniforms. The campaign will center around the dates named. Individuals as well as organizations will be given an opportunity to contribute to this popular cause. Fifty uniforms are needed.

To the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion goes the credit for inaugurating the band uniform movement. Already the Auxiliary has contributed $100 to the fund. Several other Circleville organizations have also made donations.

Mrs. Allen Thornton will represent the Auxiliary on the committee, other members of which are Ray E. Rowland, president; Frank Fischer, secretary; Robert G. Colville, treasurer; Miss Elma Rains, Frank Lynch and C. F. Zaenglein.

To select the new uniforms Mr. Rowland appointed Mr. Zaenglein, Miss Rains, Mrs. Thornton and Mr. Colville. The selection will be presented to the committee at its next meeting January 31.

As a part of "Band Uniform Week" a tag day will be held for the benefit of the fund. The proceeds of the Stooze Club dinner on February 7 and of the Girl Reserve dance on February 10 will also help swell the proceeds.

Faculty Manager Virgil M. Cress and Principal J. Wray Henry are making efforts to book a basketball game to be played on "Band Uniform Night," the date as yet undetermined.

BRITISH PURSUE GERMAN PLANES OVER ISLE AREA

LONDON, Jan. 24—For the first time in weeks, German bombs were reported dropped on British soil today.

Three enemy planes flew over the Shetland Islands, target of a number of attacks early in the war, necessitating an air raid alarm that lasted for 30 minutes.

British pursuit planes went aloft to drive off the attackers. There was no immediate official information as to the damage done by the bombs.

OREGON SOLON DENIES CONVICTS FREEDOM TO JOIN FINNISH FORCES

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 24—Immates of the Oregon state penitentiary were destined today to confine their anti-Soviet zealously to their cells.

Governor Charles A. Sprague, rejecting convicts' petitions to be released so they can join the Finnish army to fight the Russians, declared:

"They'll have all the battle they want in finding a place for themselves in society when their terms expire and they are released."

FINNS DECLARE HOSPITALS HIT BY RED BOMBS

Two Towns Suffer Heavy Damage; 1,000 Russians Killed in Battle

HELSINKI, Jan. 24—Doctors, nurses and invalids were among 31 persons killed in hospital shelters during Soviet Russian air attacks on the Finnish towns of Nurmee and Hyrynsalmi, according to reports received in Helsinki today.

The raids were carried out as part of a general Russian aerial offensive that rained bombs on ten separate Finnish districts.

Finnish sources claimed that ten buildings were destroyed by the Russians, who dropped 400 bombs, only to have nine of their bombers shot down.

The casualties resulted from direct hits on the shelters, it was stated.

Meanwhile, the Finnish high command claimed military successes on the eastern frontier north of Lake Ladoga, including the killing of 1,000 Russian troops.

(An official war communique issued in Moscow said patrols were active in the Ikhta and Repola sectors and that some infantry activity occurred in the Petrozavodsk region, along with artillery fire and (Continued on Page Two)

NAVAL CHIEF REQUESTS 6,000 MORE AVIATORS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief of naval aeronautics, today asked the house naval affairs committee for permission to start training 6,000 naval aviators.

The navy at present, he said, has only 849 such officers.

Committee Chairman Vinson (D) Georgia, announced that as soon as hearings on the present expansion bill are completed, he will open hearings on this request.

Big Army Bomber Falls In West Killing Four

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Jan. 24—Army authorities today examined the wreckage of a two-motored B-18 bomber to learn why it crashed two miles northeast of Riverside last night, carrying four army airmen to death.

It was believed that ice forming on the wings of the plane as it battled its way through a severe storm caused the crash.

Two men parachuted to safety from the plane. They were Sergeant Cecil Purvis, Glenville, Ga., and Private Frank Carroll, Hyde Park, Mass.

The dead are Lieut. Raymond W. Sumi, 29, Nashvauk, Minn., Lieut. Benjamin G. Holloway, 29, Columbus, O., Sergeant Gerald Wilcox, Bennett, Iowa, and Private Leonard Riley, Wichita Falls, Tex.

The bomber was returning from the joint army and navy war games held near Monterey, Cal., to its base at March Field, and was under command of Lieut. Sumi.

Air corps authorities said the ship was flying on a radio beam and that its radio operator had reported ice forming on the wings.

Private Carroll, one of the men who bailed out, said the ship was falling "as if in a spin" just before he and Sergeant Purvis were ordered to jump.

The bomber struck nose first, apparently with terrific force. Two bodies were found in the cabin, while the other two had been thrown 100 feet from the wreckage.

Only one plane of 38 engaged in a mass infantry flight experiment from Hamilton Field in northern California to March Field, reached its objective as the result of storms that lashed the Tehachapi Peaks with rain and snow.

Walter Gableman, 49, Brother Of Postmaster And Washington Correspondent, Victim Of Compound Skull Fracture South Of City

SEDAN GOES OFF ROUTE 23 INTO TREE

Native Of Waverly Affiliated With Many Masonic Orders, Operated Recreation Center; Wed On New Year's Day

Walter Gableman, 49, member of a prominent Portsmouth family and an active businessman in that city for many years, died at about 7 p. m. Tuesday in Chillicothe City Hospital of injuries that he received three hours earlier when he lost control of his automobile and it struck a tree along Route 23, six miles south of Circleville. Mr. Gableman's skull was fractured. The fatality was Pickaway County's first in 1940.

The accident happened just south of Nash, Mr. Gableman's Chrysler sedan traveling on the berm of the road for about 80 yards before it swerved across the highway and struck the tree broadside. The right side of the vehicle was caved in. The car, according to Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver who investigated, had apparently struck the edge of the pavement and careened across the road against the tree near the residence of Randall Hays.

Mrs. Hays heard the crash and stopped a passing truck driven by Howard Williamson of London, Ohio, Route 1 for assistance.

Williamson, aided by G. L. Stone who accompanied him, removed the unconscious motorist from the wrecked car. A Circleville ambulance was called, but before it could reach the scene the invalid car of Howard Smith, Bainbridge funeral director, passed the scene enroute south and took the Portsmouth man to the hospital. Dr. Robert Andrews of Waverly, who was also passing the scene, stopped and declared that he didn't believe the injured man could live long because of the compound fracture.

Dr. Andrews followed the ambulance to Chillicothe hospital and provided what assistance he could. Consulting Specialist Mr. Gableman, manager of the Playhouse, Portsmouth recreation center, was riding alone. Relatives in Portsmouth said that he had been in Columbus consulting a heart specialist. His home was 1502 Charles Street.

Mr. Gableman was born November 16, 1889, at Waverly, the youngest of a family of seven children. His parents, Philip and Margaret Gableman, preceded him in death.

Following his graduation from Waverly High School, he taught school for two years and removed to Portsmouth in 1909 and for two years was employed as a salesman for the Portsmouth Shoe Company. Afterward, he was associated with a brother, the late William N. Gableman, in the operation of a cigar stand in the Washington (Continued on Page Two)

SCARLET FEVER EPIDEMIC HALTS MILAN CLASSES

SANDUSKY, Jan. 24—A scarlet fever epidemic forced the public school at Milan, 12 miles south of Sandusky, to close.

One hundred and twenty-nine students were sent home when it was discovered that nine pupils were suffering with scarlet fever and 20 others had symptoms of the disease.

The school was closed by the Milan board of education after citizens of the village of 1,000 petitioned the board.

Most of the cases were in the third and fourth grades, Dr. F. M. Houghtaling, Sandusky health officer, said. The school will be closed for nine days, he said.

Milan is the birthplace of the late Thomas Alva Edison, famous inventor.

DIES MAY TURN PROBE TOWARD PACIFIC COAST

Inroads Of Communists And Others In Film Colony May Be Studied

HOUSE VOTES APPROVAL

All Accused Of Subversive Activity May Be Asked For Testimony

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—The Dies committee, with its life extended until January 3, 1941, will be confronted with demands for investigations in many fields, members indicated today.

A new program will be mapped out soon after Chairman Martin Dies (D) Texas, recuperating now at his home, returns to Washington. He is expected within a week. The house voted continuation of the committee yesterday, 345 to 21.

Investigation of Communist and Nazi activities on the Pacific Coast was expected to be the first big field of operations for the committee. Its investigators have charged that Communists have made inroads in the Hollywood movie colony and among state and federal employees on the Pacific Coast.

Two members of the committee, Reps. Dempsey (D) New Mexico and Casey (D) Massachusetts, proposed that the committee announce a series of open hearings and invite all persons who have been accused by committee witnesses of Fascist, Communist or Nazi activities, to appear.

New Procedure Asked

Drastic revision of committee procedure, interpreted by some members as a slap at Chairman Dies, also will be proposed in the first executive session of the committee. Rep. Voorhis (D) California, plans to ask the committee to adopt rules of procedure which include a ban upon statements and predictions by members without approval of the full committee or positive evidence to support their assertions.

"I approve the changes suggested by Voorhis," said Rep. Mason (R) of Illinois. "I don't consider a slap at Mr. Dies, but in the interest of orderly procedure."

Rep. Thomas (R) of New Jersey said that he would propose "a thorough investigation with no pulling of punches."

"Let the chips fall where they may," he said. "We should go into consumers organizations further and should go further in linking the Communist Party with Soviet Russia so that the Department of Justice will have evidence, once and for all, showing the party to be an agent of Russia so that every leading Communist can be put behind the bars."

Rep. Dempsey said that he favored a "broad investigation."

"The first thing we should do," he said, "is to give everyone whose names have been mentioned unfavorably an opportunity to be heard."

Rep. Casey also proposed that the first business of the committee be to give opportunity to persons to deny testimony affecting them.

Acting Chairman Starnes (D) of Alabama proposed, among other things, that the committee go further in exposing Communistic activities among youth organizations and in schools and colleges.

He also proposed that the committee call in "the best minds of America" to suggest ways of meeting problems raised during the investigation.

WILMINGTON YOUTH HAS CHANCE FOR NAVY POST

WILMINGTON, Jan. 24—Glen Ralston, 17, senior at Wilmington High School, was notified officially by Congressman Clarence J. The second alternate is Frank Leland Haines, Blaine, Me.

"Congo Maisie"
HOLLYWOOD has learned how to make a Broadway showgirl feel at home in Africa. After all, she must first feel at home in Hollywood. Now they've done it with a girl named Ann Sothern, who plays the title role in "Congo Maisie," which starts Friday showing at the Cliftona Theatre.

Miss Sothern, who until a few years ago was Harriette Lake, of Broadway, now is "Congo Maisie." It is her second interpretation of the Maisie role. In the new film, second of the series, she is a stranded showgirl in Africa. Her leading man is John Carroll, on his first Hollywood assignment and back in African adventure by proxy. He really lived there. He is 27 years old, 6 feet 4 inches tall, has been a globe-trotter for twelve years and Maisie herself, with all her knowledge, would regard him with open mind in real life.

Durbin to Put Name On Ohio Presidential List

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Playing Vice President John Garner and terming him a "reactionary," Francis W. Durbin, Allen County Democratic chairman, today tossed his hat into the presidential ring as Ohio's "favorite son" candidate so that "President Roosevelt might be assured of the support of the Ohio delegation."

At the same time, Durbin stated that he would withdraw immediately if U. S. Senator Vic Donahey "or anyone else" would become Ohio's favorite son candidate and pledge support to Mr. Roosevelt.

Commenting on Durbin's surprise move, Democratic state headquarters, through a spokesman, replied, "He's for Roosevelt and so are we. There isn't much else to say."

Political observers interpreted Durbin's entrance into the national political arena as an attempt to "smoke out" Donahey on his attitude toward a third term for the President. Also, to eliminate the possibility that Garner might "slip in" and obtain support of the Ohio delegation.

Garner Defied
"In order to comply with Ohio laws," Durbin said, "I announce my candidacy for President of the United States and will put my name on the presidential ballot at the May primary. I defy Vice President Garner or any other reactionary to come into Ohio and try to take the delegation away from President Roosevelt."

Durbin assailed former Gov-

SCIOTO RIVER'S ICE SAVES TWO IN CAR MISHAP

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Mr. and Mrs. Rex W. Bowen today were thankful the recent cold spell had frozen the Scioto River over to a substantial depth.

Their automobile skidded near the city waterworks pumping station last night and plunged down a 40-foot bank onto the river. The car landed on its top and the front end and part of the top broke through the ice. However, the ice held the car above the surface, permitting the Bowsens to escape.

Police explained the river was about 29 feet deep at that point. Bowen, 50, suffered shock and exposure and Mrs. Bowen, 49, suffered a fractured arm and shoulder and shock.

CONTEST FOR NAME

When announcer Bill Goodwin's baby daughter was born recently, Bill and Mrs. Goodwin promptly named her Jill. After a few weeks had elapsed, the parents decided the name didn't fit and began casting about for another. The youngster became the subject of some kidding between Goodwin and Bob Hope on the latter's Tuesday night funfest and that's how a contest idea was born.

Beginning January 30, through five broadcasts and closing February 29th, Hope's sponsor will sponsor a contest to name Goodwin's baby.

Effective with the broadcast of Saturday, January 27, Stop Me If You've Heard This One will originate from the Dempsey-Vanderbilt Hotel in Miami, Fla., where Milton Berle has been ordered by his physician for a three week rest following a siege of the flu. Col. Jay C. Flippen and Sen. Edward Ford, regular gagbusters on the show, will accompany Berle to Miami, where guest Gagbusters will be procured for one shots during the program's three week Florida stay. A band directed by Barry Stewart will provide the music.

TWO ECONOMISTS DISCUSS FARM TASK ON JAN. 29

Tillers of the soil who gather on the campus of Ohio State University for the annual Farmers' Week, January 29 to February 2, will have an opportunity to attend a radio broadcast, "Columbus Town Meeting," to be held in the University Chapel at 9 p. m. on Monday, January 29.

Two nationally known speakers will discuss a question vital to all farmers, "Are Subsidies To Agriculture In The Public Interest?" The speakers are Dr. E. G. Nourse, Brookings Institute, Washington D. C., and Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel, Economist, Bureau of Agricultural Economics Washington D. C. The program will be broadcast over radio stations WCOL and WOSU, Columbus.

Elmer F. Kruse, Chairman of the Ohio AAA Committee, will address farmers on Wednesday, January 31, on the subject, "How The Agricultural Adjustment Program Promotes Desirable Agronomic Practices." All farmers have been invited to attend this session.

CREDIT FOR FINLAND

IF mighty little Finland can only get as much financial credit as she has moral credit, there need be little fear of the outcome. The United States Congress is evidently going to act handsomely in this respect, and even the usually tight-fisted Senator Glass says our government should help finance the Finns' war for freedom if it has to borrow the money. Britain, France and other liberal countries seem ready to do their share.

As a matter of fact, the democracies could well afford, if necessary, to give Finland outright the money and credit she needs in her heroic war. For the Finns are fighting not only for themselves but for all free nations, and for the preservation of democracy in a time of great peril.

PEACH TREE PUZZLE

A NEIGHBORHOOD squabble finally brought two women into court, one of them charged by the other with malicious destruction of a peach tree. The accused woman asserted that the tree was exactly on the line between the two yards. She had a surveyor out to prove it. The branches on her side shaded her garden, so she cut them all off. The operation was more than the tree could survive.

The judge dismissed the charge, saying that the law permitted the woman to cut down her half of the tree. Shakespeare's woman lawyer would probably have argued that the pruning had destroyed the other woman's half of the tree, and insisted on punishment for that offense.

Peach trees never grow very large and the disinterested outsider is inclined to wonder just how much harm its shade could do to any sort of garden. Well, the tree is gone. The quarrel presumably goes on. A modern judge may fall short of the wisdom of Solomon and the cleverness of Portia.

WAR ON COFFEE

THIS country is Nicaragua's leading buyer of coffee. Last year it took two-thirds of the entire crop for $1,700,000. Next highest purchaser was Germany with $500,000 worth. Holland and France were third and fourth.

It is said that the increasing sale of Nicaraguan coffee to the United States does not compensate for lost trade in their European markets. Germany and other countries are buying far less coffee than formerly, and growers in Nicaragua are worried about their future.

This is only one small instance of the general upsetting of markets for all sorts of products throughout the world which has been caused by war. The people who think war is a useful thing because it keeps the human race from becoming too popu-

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,

WOODRING FAILS TO RISE TO BAIT
WASHINGTON—The President's quiet efforts to ease Secretary Harry Woodring out of the Cabinet by offering him another job continue to prove unavailing. The little Kansan refuses to budge.

Roosevelt's latest offer was to make him U. S. Ambassador to Italy. Ambassador William Phillips is planning to retire in the spring and Roosevelt saw a chance of killing two birds with one stone—filling the post quickly and at the same time getting shed of Woodring in the Cabinet. But he wouldn't bite.

"Harry," the President said ingratiatingly, "how would you and the Mrs. like to go to Rome?"

"Thanks, Mr. President," was the prompt reply. "It was nice of you to think of us, but I don't want to go to Rome."

And that was that. Roosevelt smiled, Woodring grinned back at him—and is still in the Cabinet. Apparently it's going to take more than a sugar-coated hint to dislodge the Secretary of War.

BRICKER FOR PRESIDENT

Without public announcement, the presidential campaign of Governor John Bricker of Ohio has been thrown into high gear again.

It was voluntarily switched off several months ago after a series of secret powwows with Senator Bob Taft, at which Bricker agreed to give his fellow Ohioan a clear field. Taft has been busily campaigning ever since, dashing about the country with his dynamic wife, making numerous speeches, and jousting with Roosevelt over balancing the budget.

Recently Bricker's lieutenants decided that Taft's boom was not catching on. After contacting friendly leaders in a number of states, they quietly reopened their headquarters at 120 South LaSalle Street, Chicago, and are again doing business at the old stand.

According to a private letter sent out to state leaders, "Governor Bricker has not sanctioned this activity, and in all probability will not approve of it." But to date he hasn't disapproved and the campaigning goes merrily on.

Bricker intimates consider him a victim of repeated bad breaks. If it hadn't been for Taft, they say, the Governor would by now have been far out in front as a "favorite son" candidate.

JACKSON'S HAT

Bob Jackson's first Cabinet meeting as Attorney General cost him a hat.

He remained behind after the others left, to discuss several legal matters with the President, and when he emerged from the office his hat was gone. There was a hat on the rack, but it wasn't Jackson's and there were no initials on the band to identify its owner.

"Well, Pat," he said to Pat McKenna, genial, veteran White House receptionist, "I've heard of losing one's shirt, but I didn't expect to lose my hat."

"Maybe," laughed McKenna, "somebody took it to throw into the ring. They're doing that a lot these days."

WORLD AT A GLANCE

QUITE A BATCH of American ambassadorial posts in foreign countries were filled recently. The appointees all were rich men. Most of our ambassadors are. For instance, the Kennedys in London, the Bullitts in Paris and the Cromwells in Canada—where James H. R. Cromwell isn't an ambassador, but only a minister; however, our Canadian legation is as expensive to maintain as any of our embassies anywhere.

We have a few legations abroad in which our ministers can support their establishments on the salaries they get from Uncle Samuel. But we haven't any such embassies. An American ambassador HAS to have dough of his own, or his job will bankrupt him. A minister in some little peewee of a Central American republic can get along on his salary from Washington. Some of our Balkan and Scandinavian and a few other diplomatic assignments also are self-supporting. All our major incumbencies, though, call for plutocrats or they go bankrupt in short order.

An American ambassador abroad gets $16,000 annually. It may sound liberal—but his expenses!

HOW ABOUT ECONOMY?

Can't these chaps economize?

Well, I never discussed the question with an American ambassador, but I did discuss it once with Dr. Julius Klein, when he was our ambassadorial commercial attache in Buenos Aires and when I lived there as a Yankee newspaperman.

Just after the last World War the "doc" was sent to the Argentine capital, as a member of our diplomatic staff. He was a great success. He spoke good Spanish. He was "simpatico," as the Latins say. From all appearances he was resigning. I was puzzled. Meeting the "doc" on the Avenida, I asked him for particulars.

"The truth is," said the "doc," "I can't afford to stay here." "I knew what his pay was—$8,000 a year. It seemed to me that the average American ought to be able to worry along on that stipend. The 'doc' saw from my expression that was what I had in mind.

HITTING A BALANCE

"I know," he said, "what you're thinking of."

"If I were at home, where I can regulate my own expenses, I could pay my bills handsomely on $8,000 a year."

"Officially, I have to confer with the minister of finance on this or that matter. I communicate with him. He invites me to a banquet. Then I must see the minister of agriculture. Another banquet. Then the minister of foreign affairs. Banquet No. 3. And more after that.

"Now I've about been the rounds. It's up to me to furnish a banquet of my own to all the rest. If I don't I can't continue to associate with them. If I do it'll take my entire $8,000 to foot the bill."

"With no means of my own, I can't stand the gaff."

EUROPE MORE EXPENSIVE

This was in Buenos Aires, where banquets cost comparatively little; they cost a darned sight more in London and Paris.

The complaint is that diplomatic appointments go only to huge contributors to political campaign funds.

That is to say, an ambitious American socialite sweetens his party's fund liberally and, if it wins, gets a juicy foreign post as his reward, making things subsequently lovely socially for his wife and daughters, in London, Paris and whereabouts.

But he has to have a substantial bankroll to be a $16,000-diplomat anyway. Sixteen thousands is a picayune sum—really. Ask any ambassador.

Protecting Others in Scarlet Fever

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

SEVERAL questions from M. A. C., Rock Creek, Ohio, have to do with disinfection after scarlet fever:

"Is it possible for a person to carry scarlet fever infection into a room by simply passing through it? In case infection could be carried into a room in this manner, how long would it last? Would disinfection still be needed after a period of weeks?"

"In the home referred to, spraying of disinfectant was directed by the community nurse, but the spraying was done by the family and there is reason to believe that some of the children's dolls and books that were played with during the illness were not disinfected for fear they might be spoiled. In this case, how long would it be before such things were safe for other children to handle?"

The general principle of dealing with scarlet fever is based on the fact that it is an infectious disease which is carried by persons or objects (fomites) that the scarlet fever patient has touched. In observing strict precautions, it is advised that the books or toys that the child plays with during the illness should be burned, that the bed clothing should be boiled and the mattress formalin treated and aired. The room should be disinfected by the formalin process, and not be used by others until six weeks after the end of the period of convalescence. Of course, in actual practice such precautions are difficult or even impossible to carry out. In actual practice, also, disregarding such strict precautions is not often followed by infection of another party. This is because scarlet fever is a very slightly contagious disease. If 100 children who had never had measles were exposed to measles, close to a hundred of them would get it. Under the same circumstances, with scarlet fever, probably not more than five or 10 would contract the disease.

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

In very severe epidemics of scarlet fever the precautions outlined should be carried out. In the comparatively mild cases that have been prevalent lately, common sense would dictate considerable relaxation of vigilance. The convalescence of scarlet fever should be long so, in the case of toys, the plan should be made in the beginning of the illness, in all cases, that cheap and inexpensive toys and books be provided so that they can be finally burned.

Preventing Skin Scruffiness

How do you prevent scruffiness of the skin in the winter time?

Winter dermatitis is a condition in which the skin, especially of the exposed parts of the body, such as the hands and the corners of the mouth, crack. The general surface is rough and scurfy. The French call this "Laundress' dermatitis" and it undoubtedly is associated with the use of too much soap and water. Alkaline substances in soap induce alteration of the skin which sensitizes it to cold and also to other substances which produce eczema and scruffiness.

Treatment is obvious. It consists of cutting down on the amount of hand-washing in the winter time, and in the use of toilet lanolin liberally applied at night before going to bed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

B. F. E.: "What is the cause of a burning on the side of the mouth and tongue?"

Answer: This might be due to a number of things. It certainly should call for careful examination by a competent doctor. It may be due to anemia and it may be due to an ulceration. It may be due to a snag of a tooth.

John Doe: "Please tell the value, if any, an adult may derive from the use of parsley juice."

Answer: I know of no special value of parsley juice. I would be glad to hear from any of my readers who think there is some benefit in it.

E. H. S.: "In a case of known increase of 20 per cent of the hydrochloric acid in the stomach, would you consider four or five cigarettes a day injurious?"

Answer: There is no question that cigarettes increase the hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Therefore, I should say that their use would be contra-indicated in view of this condition.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clending has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent station, to Dr. Logan Clending, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:
ROMANY HALLIE, who wants to be a radio star.
CHOLLY O'NEILL, her pal, who plays in a music store.
BRENT NELSON, successful young announcer.
MYRA NOYES, famous radio star, engaged to Brent.
TERRY O'ROURKE, who has a weakness for Cholly and for liquor.
BAXTER TREE, a continuity writer without a job.
YESTERDAY: Brent introduces Cholly and Romany to Dover Hayworth, blue-blooded son of a wealthy manufacturer, and all four go for a cruise on the Hayworth yacht.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

ROMANY HAD enjoyed a few holidays with Aunt Cissie, so that she was not entirely unprepared for the luxury on the Hayworth yacht. But to Cholly it was fairyland.

Dinner, served on a table for four on deck, was a rite. Dover was a perfect host, and Brent was in his gayest mood. After Cholly's first self-consciousness wore off, she ate with relish, enjoying herself immensely.

Romany she envied, sitting opposite her, looking like a princess who had stepped out of her castle for a little sail on Lake Michigan. No one would ever have suspected that she had grown up without a thin dime, and was even then garbed in hand-me-downs from a rich relative.

Nice things always happened to Romany, Cholly thought, but entirely without envy. She was so generous in wanting to share everything with her less fortunate friends. Cholly firmly believed Romany had launched on an entirely new life that was to bring her success and fortune. Nothing could stop Romany, with her great talent and beauty. Terry, Cholly pushed firmly in the back of her mind, determined to take a vacation from her worries at least for one evening.

By the time they had finished dinner, it had grown chilly on deck and Dover suggested they go into the lounge. It was the opportunity Brent had been hoping for. He wanted to hear Cholly play.

"How about a little music?" he said inside. "I always feel like singing when I get on the water."

"Heaven forbid," Dover grinned. "He sings like a triumphant elephant. My sense of harmony, now, that's what you ought to get a load of."

"If you air that bar room tenor," Nelson predicted darkly, "the girls will both jump overboard. And I'll probably join them."

"Play, Cholly," Romany threw herself gracefully into a chair by the piano. "I haven't heard you since we were in school."

Cholly sat down without hesitation, running her little hands over the keyboard, getting the tone of the instrument. It was perfect. She sighed happily, breaking into a melody of old songs, "Sweet and Low," "Sailing, Sailing, Over the Bounding Main," "By the Sea," and ending up with "Barnacle Bill the Sailor."

The lovely tones filled the lounge and the bright moonlight night. Cholly, improvising happily because it was seldom she got her hands on a really good piano, played on for several minutes without stopping.

Brent, catching Romany's eye, nodded. She was a fine pianist, no doubt of it. In a little while, Dover moved to the piano bench beside Cholly, watching her, fascinated. He loved music, and it was amazing that two such small white hands could bring so much beauty from a piano. They looked so fragile, yet were strong and sure on the keyboard.

"Marvelous!" Dover looked at the pretty red-head with a new interest when she stopped playing. "Do you do concert work?"

"Mercy, no!" Cholly shook her curly head swiftly, laughing. I play the piano part time in Leo-Dane's music store.

Romany was a little sorry she

Cholly's soprano was at least on key and her playing helped.

had said it. But if Dover's illusions were shattered, he gave no sign.

"Well, blow me down!" he said wonderingly. "You certainly pound out a powerful lot of melody with those little pinkies. You've got a great future ahead of you, Cholly."

Cholly sighed. "Oh, no. Nothing like that. Piano players are a nickel a carload, aren't they, Brent?"

Brent pursed his lips. "Well, I would have said so when you sat down to the piano, Cholly, but I'm not so sure now. You've got one thing in your favor, especially in radio. There isn't a pianist at Interstate who would add anything to a television broadcast. You'd certainly meet all requirements on that score."

"No doubt about that," Dover agreed with him. "Television is going to mean quite a shakeup in Chicago radio circles. Don't you think so, Brent?"

"I'm afraid so," Brent sighed. "The big wave is about to sweep over us. The World's Fair broadcasts have clinched that."

"That'll be tough for you," Dover grinned.

"Yes, I'll probably be out peddling sody pop in a few weeks," Brent smiled. He was the handsomest announcer in the Middle West.

"Do you sing?" Dover turned to Romany then.

"Like a frog," Romany nodded. "You can't expect a great tragedienne to be a concert singer, too," Nelson chided. "But she might give us a couple of scenes from Shakespeare."

"It's against the rules of my contract," Romany did a perfect imitation of Myra Noyes and her grandest manner. "When she realized what she had done, she flushed, and Brent and Dover laughed with relish."

A little later the foursome just naturally drifted into a singing fest, although Dover's tenor, Brent's baritone and Romany's contralto would have drawn the gong in an amateur broadcast. Cholly's soprano was at least on key, and her playing was a great help.

"This," Dover decided as they walked along the dock at twelve o'clock, "gets my vote as the swell evening we've ever had on the old tub, Brent. What do you say?"

"Indeed yes," the announcer said heartily. "I can have a large evening just sitting looking at this green-eyed dame!" He referred, of course, to Romany.

"You'll come often, won't you?" Dover urged. "We'll ditch the gang and have another foursome very soon."

"Of course," Romany assured him. "Won't we, Cholly?"

"I've had a grand time," Cholly evaded.

"I'm taking Cholly in my car."

Dover said when they were on the street. "That isn't necessary," Cholly began, but Romany gave her a swift poke in the ribs, silencing her.

Romany knew Dover had been much taken with Cholly, and she meant to do everything possible to flare the spark into a flame. Dover was driving his car also, and the two couples parted at the pier.

There was no trouble with Brent and his love making on the way home, which was a relief to Romany. He was tenderly solicitous and amazingly silent. They rode along in the moonlight swiftly, meeting Dover and Cholly a half hour later in front of the apartment, where they said goodnight with promises to go yachting again soon.

Upstairs, Cholly sat down in the living room thoughtfully. "I'm afraid—" She looked up and smiled suddenly. "I had a good time. Funny, isn't it?"

"Why funny?" Romany asked. "Oh," Cholly shrugged, "I just thought I couldn't have a good time out with anyone but Terry."

Romany snickered.

"You've never given yourself a chance to find out."

"Well," Cholly sighed again, "it was fun while it lasted."

"Meaning what?"

"That I'm not going to make a habit of it, of course."

"Will you please draw a diagram, maybe I'm dense?"

"Oh!" Cholly turned impatiently in her chair. "What's the use of going out and enjoying all that luxury and stuff and getting used to it. It would just spoil you for all the things you can't have."

"And what," Romany said impatiently, "makes you think you can't have them? You could marry Dover Hayworth as easily as falling off a log if you made up your mind. In two weeks he'd be mad about you, if you handled him right."

"Romey!" Cholly exploded.

"You're crazy! What would a millionaire blue blood see in a nobody like me? You know perfectly well what happens when people marry so far out of their class."

Romany said with fire: "Do you mean to say there and tell me you have an inferiority complex? That you think you're not as good as Dover Hayworth? Why, twenty years ago his father was raising corn out in the corn belt. He just had sense enough to make it into syrup and get rich."

Cholly got up.

"I still say," she had the last word, "you're crazy. Do you want a debutante. That's what his father and mother would want him to do. To him I'd never be anything but a girl who could amuse him playing the piano."

Dance Planned In Castle Club Rooms

Williamsport has decided to have its own President's Birthday Ball this year and plans are rapidly nearing completion for an evening of real enjoyment for guests, as well as one of profit for a worthy cause.

The ball will be in the Castle Club Rooms of the village Friday, January 26, with dancing to the music of Andy Gidding's orchestra beginning at 9 p. m. and continuing until 1 a. m. This dance orchestra is a popular organization of the Washington C. H. community.

Plans for the evening include a lovely door prize and lunch will be available during the affair.

The committee in charge of the plans includes Mrs. William D. Radcliff, Mrs. William Dunlap, Mrs. W. D. Heiskell, Mrs. Tom Gehart, Sam B. Metzger, Harry Hurst, Lee Luellen and W. D. Heiskell.

Mrs. Burke Hostess

Among those present were Mrs. T. O. Gilliland, Mrs. R. L. Brehmer, Mrs. Will Mack, Mrs. Clarence Ater, Mrs. Charles Smith, Miss Mary Heffner, Mrs. Henry Mader and Mrs. J. Wallace Crist.

After several rounds of contract bridge, Mrs. Crist and Mrs. Smith won the score prizes. Salad and wafers were served by the hostess at the small tables after the games.

Saltcreek PTA
One hundred and seventy-five members and guests enjoyed the "Bandanna Minstrel Show" Tuesday at the January session of the Saltcreek Township Parent-Teacher Association which met in the school auditorium. Pupils of the seventh and eighth grades of the school were responsible for the production, Gomer Jones, a member of the high school faculty, being in charge.

Snappy jokes, songs and dances in approved minstrel style afforded an evening of rafe enjoyment. Mrs. Clarence Painter's monologue, "How to Reduce," created much merriment.

Old familiar songs, including "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," were sung during the evening under the leadership of Miss Dorothy Van Voorhis.

During the business hour the program committee for the next session was announced, being comprised of Mrs. Fred Minshell, Mrs. Dwight Rector and Mrs. H. A. Strous. The refreshments will be served by Mrs. L. H. Chase, Mrs. Thomas Hockman and Mrs. Homer Hartsough.

Russell Anderson discussed the features of the program arranged for the Saltcreek Township Farmers' Institute, which will be January 26-27, in the school auditorium.

Refreshments were served by members of the losing team of the recent membership drive, during the social hour.

Attention of the members was called to the Twenty-third District meeting which will be held Friday in Washington C. Later in the evening, a delicious salad course was served in the dining room by the refreshment committee with Mrs. William B. Cady as chairman.

Child Conservation League
About 20 members of the Child Conservation League gathered Tuesday at the home of Mrs. John W. Eshelman, North Pickaway Street, for the semi-monthly session. Mrs. Clark Will interested the group with her comprehensive talk on "Radio and Children".

Speaking of the many programs arranged for the entertainment of children she told of the particular value of some and of the drawbacks and shortcomings of others.

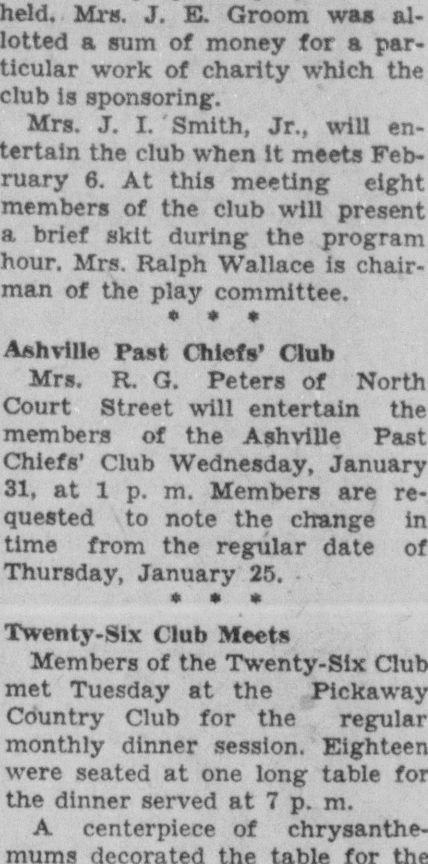

Mrs. Ben Gordon's talk on "New Victrola Records for Children", told of the many new features of the combined victrola and radio. She stressed the fact that children could be taught songs and stories by use of the records, as they could be repeated many times for their enjoyment, while a radio program could be heard only once.

Mrs. G. D. Phillips, club president, was in charge of the business meeting when discussion of different proposed projects was held.

Mrs. J. E. Groom was allotted a sum of money for a particular work of charity which the club is sponsoring.

Mrs. J. I. Smith, Jr., will entertain the club when it meets February 6. At this meeting eight members of the club will present a brief skit during the program hour. Mrs. Ralph Wallace is chairman of the play committee.

Contract bridge was played after the dinner hour, Mrs. G. D. Phillips winning high score prize for ladies and John W. Eshelman, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Grant and Mrs. Ray Rowland.

Scioto Valley Grange
Owing to the inclement weather, only 30 members of Scioto Valley Grange were present for the meeting Tuesday in the grange hall north of Ashville. In the absence of the regular program committee, Mrs. Ira Scothorn, lecturer, took charge of the meeting and interested the group first with a reading, "The New Year."

She then presented the opening words of 60 famous sayings, making an interesting contest.

An informal quiz closed the entertainment.

HENRY TANGLES WITH PUERTO RICAN TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—Henry

Armstrong, a spindly-shanked little Negro who wanted to be a doctor and who compromised with himself to the extent of becoming a poet and writer of sorts, tosses aside the implement of a struggling idealist tonight to bash and batter to the best of his ability a challenger for the one remaining world's boxing championship he holds. Briefly, he meets Pedro Montanez, an inarticulate Puerto Rican, in defense of the welter-weight championship and is a 1 to 3 favorite in win somehow, and an even money bet to score a knockout.

Armstrong, one of the most amazing fighters in the long history of pugilism, will be making his 15th defense of the 147-pound crown, and with that adding to a string that shows he has made more defenses than 11 previous champions of the division combined. He also won and voluntarily relinquished the featherweight title, won, defended and finally lost the lightweight title and is pursuing a campaign which probably has never been matched.

His opponent this evening is a rough and tough free-wheeler who is particularly adept at body-punching but none too good in the clutch, hence the one-sided odds. Moreover, Montanez cuts easily around the eyes and probably will be slashed plenty by gloves or Armstrong's liberal application of his head in close.

STICKY TRACK PREVENTS SEABISCUIT'S COMEBACK

SANTA ANITA, Jan. 24—Fate, which has kept Seabiscuit from his much-sought goal, leading money earning thoroughbred of all time, again stepped in today and balked Seabiscuit's comeback test at Santa Anita.

Scheduled to run in the fourth race today in his first start since last winter when he lost to Today, a horse which later succumbed in a freak accident, Seabiscuit was kept in the barn because of track conditions, the Santa Anita strip coming up sticky from rain.

WOOSTER SCORES AGAIN

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Wooster today boasted of five consecutive Ohio Conference basketball victories as a 59 to 45 win over Ashland was marked down in the books. Wooster and Muskingum lead the conference with perfect records. However, Muskingum tops the Scots in the number of victories by one. In non-conference encounters last night, Findlay proved too much for the strong Wilmington five, winning 39 to 33, and Ohio Northern swamped Bluffton, 54 to 29.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. Scott

THE HUMAN FOOT IS ARCHED BECAUSE IT IS THE STRONGEST STRUCTURE TO SUPPORT A WEIGHT, AS ARCHITECTS AND BRIDGE BUILDERS FOUND THOUSANDS OF YEARS AGO.

THE PALM IS ONE OF THE OLDEST MEASURES OF LENGTH - IT WAS THE WIDTH OF THE OPEN HAND AT THE BASE OF FINGERS - ABOUT THREE INCHES.

WATER CROSSES A BRIDGE NEAR METAMORA, INDIANA, WHERE WHITEWATER CANAL PASSES OVER DUCK CREEK - THE BRIDGE WAS BUILT IN 1847.

Township Board Appeals To Judge Terwilliger For Boys, Girls And Cash

BRIEFS TO BE WRITTEN

State's Supreme Court May Determine Precedent For Ohio Educators

Another chapter was added to the court fight that has evolved from the action of the Pickaway County Board of Education in transferring the high school students of Muhlenberg Township to the Monroe Township school.

Common Pleas Judge Meeker Terwilliger, whose recent decision which upheld the legality of the transfer was overruled by the Court of Appeals, heard a petition brought Tuesday by the Muhlenberg board asking for an interlocutory mandatory injunction for the return of school funds and students to its jurisdiction.

The cast has been taken under advisement and briefs were asked to be submitted by Saturday after which Judge Terwilliger will render a decision.

Court Told Of Appeal

Attorneys Ray Davis, E. L. Crist and Charles Gerhardt, representing the county board, informed the court that the decision of the Court of Appeals will be taken to the Ohio Supreme Court.

The petition of the Muhlenberg Board of Education asks that the Monroe board return to its jurisdiction the teaching responsibilities and funds pending the decision of the Supreme Court.

If the decision of the appeals court is allowed to remain, much turmoil is anticipated throughout the educational system in the state since many such transfers have been made in various other counties, county school authorities say.

No similar action has ever been heard by the judges of the state's highest tribunal and the decision in this action will clarify much of the law enlighten educators as to whether the jurisdiction of education lies with the county or the township board.

If the Supreme Court admits the case to hearing under the "general welfare and public interest" clause and renders a verdict, then the opinion can be used to adjudicate any future conflicts that may arise between townships.

OHIO FUEL GAS OFFERS CUT IN COLUMBUS RATE

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24 — City Council today studied a proposal of C. I. Weaver, president of the Ohio Fuel Gas Company, which called for a natural gas rate averaging 63.76 cents for Columbus consumers to end the 15-year-old gas rate litigation.

The rate now averages 56.22 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

The proposition was coupled with a plan to distribute $958,949 of the almost $2,000,000 of impounded money in the old federal court rate case to consumers. The refund, Weaver said, would be about 13.65 per customer.

HARDIN COUNTY VILLAGE SCENE OF BLAST, FIRE

KENTON, Jan. 24—Gas leakage today was blamed for the blast at nearby Algier which destroyed a filling station and a restaurant at a loss in excess of $15,000.

Fire Chief Frank May said exploding drums of kerosene and alcohol hampered firefighters who battled the flames for four hours to prevent their spreading to the downtown business district.

LINEMAN NAMED AS PERPETRATOR OF MANY CRIMES

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—"Practically every major robbery" in Columbus in the last year and a half was believed solved with the arrest of John D. Roth, 35-year-old lineman for the Columbus municipal light plant.

Chief of Detectives Leo Phillips announced Roth had confessed 13 robberies and a safe burglary which netted him more than $3,500. The soft-spoken, be-spectacled city employee received a salary of $150 a month, Phillips said.

Roth admitted, Phillips said, staging two holdups of the Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. two robberies at the Postal Telegraph Co., three in state liquor stores and one at the main Western Union office.

Phillips said the city employee was unable to explain why he staged the holdups.

"I just wanted more than I had," detectives quoted Roth as saying. "I must have a kink in me somewhere."

DEFENSE BEGINS FOR CHIEF OF RELIEF OFFICE

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Defense testimony in behalf of James S. Clifton, suspended Franklin County relief director on trial charges of embezzlement, was expected to be begun today. Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett announced he expected to finish the state's case by noon.

David A. Shade, former county commissioner, testified yesterday that Clifton told him in 1937 he had not turned into the county all money he had received and that he was "having financial difficulties." Later, Shade said Clifton told him "the matter" had been "straightened up."

Clifton is charged with embezzling $456.44 from petty cash items at the relief headquarters.
